Off to the Races Facts!

- In 1895 the first true race was held, from Paris to Bordeaux, France, and back, a distance of 1,178 km. The winner made an average speed of 24.15 kph (15 mph).
- The manhole covers in Monaco have to be welded down prior to an F1 race, or the cars will literally suck them up. An F1 car at high speeds produces a huge amount of vacuum underneath its floor to keep it sucked to the ground. For a potentially loose manhole cover, that's a very large problem. This has actually caused wrecks before.
- Greyhounds are in the top five gentlest dogs, have a 270-degree range of vision. They can see objects behind them and over ½ mile in front of them, and are the second fastest animals on earth. Only the cheetah is faster.
- The Isle of Man Tourist Trophy is a motorcycle race that has been held each June on the Isle of Man since 1907. To say that this race is dangerous would be an understatement. Over the years, this event has claimed the lives of 239 motorcycle riders, giving it claim to the most deadly race in the world.

One-one was a race horse.
 Two-two was one too.
 One-one won one race.
 Two-two won one too.
